

Dallas Schools Map Plans For Desegregation

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas school officials, happy over a federal appeals court ruling which lifted an order for them to integrate schools next month, today turned back to mapping deliberate plans for desegregation.

The U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans yesterday ruled that school authorities here "should be accorded a reasonable further opportunity" to integrate schools.

Last September Federal Judge William H. Atwell ordered integration of local public schools at midterm. Twice before he issued decisions saying Dallas need not integrate and said his third ruling was done so reluctantly.

Dr. Edwin L. Rippey, school board president, said that "naturally we are pleased with a decision of the Circuit Court which again allows us the opportunity of dictating our own timing and suggesting our own methods."

He said surveys made in connection with eventual integration here were not merely delaying actions. "We've learned a great deal—not only from the studies but from observation of other communities that have integrated."

Rippey declined to make known the board's specific plans on integration.

The appeal of Atwell's ruling said he had not followed an early mandate by the Circuit Court which called for integration "with all deliberate speed."

The appeals court said if Negro plaintiffs seeking integration should claim that school authorities have failed in their duty to integrate the Federal District Court should give them a full and fair hearing.

New Religious Freedom Stamp Goes on Sale

NEW YORK (AP)—A new 3-cent religious freedom stamp went on sale today in Flushing, Queens.

Postmaster General Summerfield, in remarks prepared for the ceremonies, said that taking religious freedom for granted could be the first step toward losing it.

The issue of 100 million stamps commemorates the Flushing Remonstrance of 1957a demand for religious freedom for all.

Three hundred years ago today, a group of Flushing residents drew up the remonstrance in defiance of Gov. Peter Stuyvesant. It was directed at the governor's ban on Quakers.

The majority of Flushing freeholders, not themselves Quakers, signed the remonstrance. It demanded that the government extend to all others the liberties enjoyed by themselves.

Summerfield said a number of the signers suffered severely in the ensuing 15 years, but were willing to endure persecution, prison and loss of worldly goods rather than relinquish their beliefs.

The stamps will go on sale generally in the nation's 38,000 post offices tomorrow.

Bellhops, Cop to Settle for $200,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A traffic policeman and two bellhops have agreed to settle for $200,000 in a legal battle for the $1,200,000 estate of Mrs. Anna M. Haerer. The remainder of the estate will be divided among four charities.

The out-of-court agreement provides for the trio to split their $200,000 portion. A contest with the charities began when two wills were filed for probate after Mrs. Haerer died July 29, 1955, in the Bellevue Stratford Hotel.

One will, signed in 1948, left her estate to William T. Miller, 63, a traffic policeman outside the hotel for nearly 30 years; Anthony D'Elia, 51, Bellevue-Stratford bellhop captain for 20 years; and William B. Dexter, 68, a retired bellhop.

A will signed in 1944 had bequeathed her estate to the Women's Auxiliary of St. Edmund's home for crippled children, the Women's Auxiliary of Misericordia Hospital and Misericordia Hospital, separately, and St. Joseph's House for Homeless Indians.

The charities contended the second will was written after the three men exerted undue influence on Mrs. Haerer, who lived in the hotel.

FOR FASHION'S SAKE—The combination of an evening gown and a donkey could mean only one thing—the Denver (Colo.) Democratic Women's Club luncheon and fashion show. Mrs. Dorothy Fieldman, a model for the fashion show, posed for the picture atop the donkey at the City Park Zoo. The donkey couldn't get away to attend the affair.

County Cotton Farmers to Meet Jan. 2

A countywide meeting for all cotton producers on Thursday morning, Jan. 2, was announced today by County Agent Oliver L. Adams and County ASC Office Manager Cecil E. Guzman. The program to be held in the Hempstead County courtroom is to begin at 9:30 a. m.

The purpose of the meeting is to provide cotton farmers who will be making many important decisions during the next few weeks with the best available information on cotton outlook, production practices, and 1958 Soil Bank Reserve program.

William E. Woodall, Extension Cotton Specialist, will discuss the cotton situation, seed supply, and production practices that should receive consideration. Mr. Woodall who leads the cotton educational program using the results of research from our experiment stations will stress practices that could lower the cost of production on many farms.

Mr. Guthrie will explain in detail the 1958 Soil Bank cotton program as it applies to taking part on the individual farm. This Soil Bank Reserve information will show the individual farmer how to sign up, rate of payment, the reserve acres management, the part of the allotment that may go into the reserve, other crops that may be produced and other needed information.

County Agent Adams says that last year 535 Hempstead County cotton farmers received $179,200 for 4,260 acres placed in the Soil Bank Reserve. Mr. Adams desires very much that every cotton producer have the facts on cotton so as to take part in 1958 as he sees fit. As producers may sign up on a first come basis in the funds allotted beginning on Jan. 13 the meeting on Thursday morning is at 9:30 and very timely.

Grandparents, Four Orphans Head Home

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A St. Louis couple has started home with four orphaned grandchildren in a station wagon loaded with gifts from sympathizers touched by the children's plight.

Roofe Sam Icke and his wife, Minnie, voiced a "thank you" to all who had helped. Icke's wallet contained a check representing contributions of cash. All will be used for the grandchildren, he said.

Four children here and four in St. Louis were orphaned last week. Mrs. Icke's daughter Mrs. Jennie Abella, 29, and her husband, Navy man Faustino Abella, 31, drowned when the Abella car plunged off a bridge into 10 feet of water.

Seven of the children were Mrs. Abella's by a previous marriage. Four of them—boys—have lived with the Ickes since her marriage to Abella more than two years ago. Living with the Abellas were the wife's three daughters and the couple's young son.

The grandparents drove from St. Louis to Long Beach in 32 hours after learning of the tragedy. They said they'll take it home slowly going back.

College Girls Exposed To Rabid Puppy

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—All except one of 82 college girls who were exposed to a rabid puppy have been warned to take precautionary measures, and a pint of blood donated by one has been found and removed from a blood bank.

State police said today they were still seeking to find Joyce Lowell of Dover, N.J., and netting her that the puppy—a Florida Southern College sorority house pet—had died of rabies. Miss Lowell was believed vacationing with her family somewhere on Florida's east coast.

The pint of blood was removed after Lynda Kell, 21, New York City, heard about the dog's death Monday and told health authorities she had played with the dog and also had donated the blood to the Polk County blood bank.

Only seven girls were nipped or scratched by the playful dog but 82 were believed to have been exposed to the pet, kept in the sorority house against college rules.

Africa-Asians to Hear Dope From Moscow

CAIRO (AP)—With the traditional slogans of Communist propaganda still echoing from the opening of the African-Asian People's Conference, delegates today hear an economic report from the Soviet Union.

In the past Russia has tried to attract underdeveloped nations to Communism, by painting glowing pictures of her economic progress.

Not a single kind word for the West was spoken yesterday by the 400 delegates from 38 nations and colonies. No more were expected today and the conference will probably go on this way until its scheduled end Jan. 1.

Since the delegations are nonofficial—some are composed of exiles—the conference is unrestricted by the normal diplomatic niceties of governments. The delegates have used this liberty to lambaste the West.

Some Western observers have long felt that Russia's greatest efforts to win over African and Asian nations were by selling them communism as the best way to prosperity.

The Soviet report came at a time that Russia is stepping up her offers of economic aid to African and Asian nations.

Among targets of speeches at the opening session of the Egyptian-sponsored conference were nuclear weapons tests, the Eisenhower Doctrine, military alliances and foreign military bases.

There is a "gross discrepancy" between governments which continue nuclear tests and people who demand cessation of tests, said Serag el Din Abbas of Indonesia.

"The people's movement opposed to atomic warfare is gaining ground," he declared.

An immediate ban on all laws even remotely imposing racial discrimination was asked by Foreign Minister Mohammed Ahmed Mahgoub of the Sudan.

A ban on weapons tests was also asked by the 45-member Japanese delegation, the largest in Cairo.

U. S. Has Put $17 Billion Into Missiles

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has put more than 17 billion dollars into research, development and production of missiles since it began work on them during World War II.

All but about half a billion dollars of the total has been programmed since the beginning of the Korean War in 1950 set off the rearmament program.

Congressional committees are investigating or preparing to investigate the whole missile program. They will try to determine whether the Pentagon has been diligent in spending the money provided by Congress and whether it has had enough funds.

Figures made available at the Pentagon today show that $17,784,000,000 has been assigned to missile programs since "fiscal year 1946 and prior." The figure includes an estimated $4,638,000,000 for the current fiscal year, but does not take into account an extra billion dollars which Secretary of Defense McElroy has said he will ask from Congress.

Man, 103, Won't Give Out Advice

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Hiram Little, 103 years old today, isn't telling anybody how to live to a ripe old age.

The independent olderster explained that he didn't believe in giving anyone advice—or in taking it either.

"That includes my children," he said. "They never tell me what to do."

"Little has five children—still living. But he lives alone in a neat bungalow on Lansing's South Side."

He does his own house work and cooks his own food although a high school girl helps him clean up the house when company is expected.

The neighbors keep an eye on Little since he occasionally refuses to answer the telephone. He usually explains that he was too busy watching television to bother.

Little said he smoked until about seven years ago, and still takes a little whisky and water for his heart.

His future plans include taking an airplane ride some day, attending the Little family reunion next summer at Anderson, Ind., and voting for a Democrat for president in 1960.

Dr. Salk May Have New Line on Cancer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Jonas Salk, polio vaccine discoverer, has disclosed laboratory tests with antibodies which may open a new line of research against cancer.

Writing in the journal Science Salk told yesterday of his work with an antibody manufacturing serum. Such serums also have been developed by other cancer researchers, but Salk said that in his serum the antibodies (disease fighters) were potent in test tubes simultaneously against both normal and cancerous tissues. It has not yet been established whether there is a common antibody to all types of cancer.

Salk has been testing laboratory animals with a serum made from monkey heart cells in a quest for a better tissue with which to cultivate polio virus for vaccine purposes.

Concerning the new serum, however, Salk said: "It is apparent that a considerable further study is required before any conclusions can be drawn."

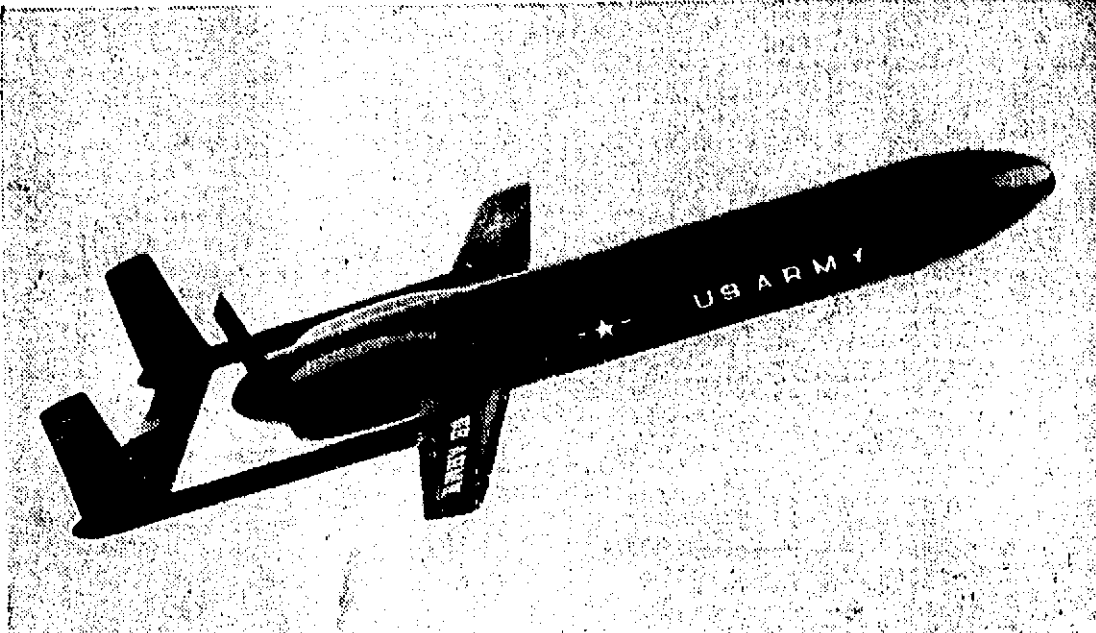

Train Kills Man Near El Dorado

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—An 85-year-old man was killed by a freight train near El Dorado last night.

Dead was W. A. Brooks of Junction City.

The engineer of the Rock Island train, en route from Alexandria, La., to El Dorado, told officers he saw the elderly man sitting on the tracks as the freight rounded a curve 13 miles south of here.

Although he blew the whistle, the engineer said, the man made no response and the train could not be stopped in time.

SPYING MACHINE—This is a model of a "surveillance drone"—an unmanned flying and spying machine, the first of its kind. It uses what the U. S. Army terms "advanced surveillance" devices. Called the SD-3, it is being produced by Republic Aviation for the Signal Corps. It is designed for all-weather use and has three different, interchangeable nose units for switching from one "sensing system" to another (photography, radar, or infra-red). The drone can be launched without a runway with jet assist and is recoverable.

A Peek at the Names of Hope Streets Will Surprise Many

By MARY ANITA LASETER

The streets of Hope have looked so pretty with their special Christmas decorations that everyone's eyes have been on them these past few weeks.

But until I got out a city map the other day, the names of a great many of our streets, drives, or avenues were unknown to yours truly. Some of these names might come as a surprise to you, too.

We have a street that is "Long," two that are "Short," and one that is "Little." While "Division" is appropriately designated, "Center Ave." is in Northwest Hope and "Center Drive" is in Southwest Hope.

The states of Texas, Louisiana, California, and Tennessee are all represented in the names of Hope streets. There is no "Arkansas Avenue," but I'm happy to say we have a "Hempstead Street."

In our "neck of the woods" people usually like trees as is evidenced by streets with such titles as Hickory, Oak, Peach, Cherry, Walnut, Laurel, Elm, Pine, Spruce, Cedar, Hawthorne and Pecan. Also there is a "Grove," an "Edgewood," and a "Greenwood."

As in the case of most communities, the names of United States Presidents have often found their way to street markers. Those in Hope include Washington, Lincoln, Hamilton, Johnson, Monroe, Arthur Taft and Wilson.

Feminine monikers are on five of our streets—Hazel, Margaret, Nancy, Pearl and Russell. And we might not be a coastal city, but we still have a "Beach Street" and a "Lake Shore Drive."

Such "high-sounding names" as "Hill Top Drive," "High Street," and "Summit Drive" have been given to streets in Hope, but we have only one "Valley." From the scholastic standpoint, we have Yale, Oxford and College streets.

How do the various city streets get their names? Property owners and residents usually propose these names, and with city council approval they are permanently labeled. For this reason many times family names have been used.

Space won't permit me to list all of these names. Suffice it to say that there is no "Alexander" but there are a "Graham" and a "Bell."

From plain, sensible names like Main, Elm and Park to those full of beauty and imagination like Mockingbird Lane, Sunset Drive, and Rose Hill, we have a wide assortment in our town.

The first time you have an opportunity look at a city map of Hope, and you'll see what I mean. Perhaps the reason there is a street named Alpha but none named Omega is that there is no ending to the names which can be created for the streets of any community.

House Fire Claims a Third Victim

WEHAWKEN, N.J. (AP)—Two grandchildren of a heroic woman who perished in a tent fire yesterday also became its victims.

The body of Mrs. Margaret Doyle, 45, was found in her third-floor apartment after she had insisted that other members of her family go ahead of her down a fire ladder.

Her grandchildren, Marjorie Lucas, 8, and Katherine Gulan, 6, both of Edgewater, got out, but later died in a hospital of burns they suffered.

Mrs. Doyle's husband, Joseph, 61, who is asthmatic, survived but was hospitalized. Doyle was in fair condition.

Five others were injured, including Union City Patrolman Frank Di Nanno, 34, and fireman Charles Miller, who rushed up the ladder to rescue the Doyles. Di Nanno broke both knee caps.

Origin of the fire was undetermined. The upper two floors of the four-story house were burned.

Reds Make Claims But Offer No Proof

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press continued today to make high claims for Russian warplanes without giving enough details for comparison in the West.

The military newspaper Red Star said a standard jet fighter went above 19,000 meters (62,335 feet) recently and was the first such plane to attain this height. The plane was not identified.

The official world's altitude record for a jet plane is 20,093 meters set in 1955 by a British plane. U. S. rocket test planes have been higher.

Newspaper and magazine articles have claimed recently that a standard jet plane reached a speed higher than the U. S. held official speed record and that a jet-heavy bomber set a new distance record.

Actor Killed in Fight, Man Is Arrested

NEW YORK (AP)—A husky laborer was charged with homicide today in the street-brawl death of Broadway actor Gerald Saraceni.

Monroe Gibson, 28, was picked up by police last night and ascertained he killed 30-year-old Saraceni with one punch on Christmas Eve outside a tavern along Broadway near 64th Street. The actor died yesterday of a brain concussion.

Saraceni, a Canadian, had a little role in the current Broadway show "Romanoff and Juliet," which stars Peter Ustinov.

With Saraceni, and also felled by an assailant, was ex-welterweight boxer Tommy Bell, 34. At first, Bell said he and his friend were attacked by several men.

Later, he said he had been drinking and that he disliked admitting that he and Saraceni had been bested by a single opponent. Gibson and Bell are Negroes; Saraceni was white.

Police said these events led up to the fatal beating: The 200-pound Gibson had tried to get into a bar and grill although it was past the 4 a. m. closing time. He was refused entry. Just then Saraceni and Bell came by, with the actor telling Gibson: "You can't get in there."

Words were exchanged and Gibson swung at Saraceni, knocking him down with one blow. The actor's head apparently struck the pavement. Gibson and Bell fought and the former boxer was felled. Gibson took out a gun—it later proved to be a toy, clubbed Bell over the head and fled.

Last night detectives took Bell on a round of taverns in the neighborhood of the slaying. Two unidentified persons were found who said they witnessed the fight. Gibson was picked up at his home. The toy gun was found under his mattress.

Bell and Saraceni were friends, but police records show the pair got into a fight last Aug. 14 in the same Manhattan area. Last Nov. 24, Bell told authorities they were arrested in the same neighborhood and fined $10 each for disorderly conduct—annoying passers-by and using loud and abusive language.

Saraceni's role in the play was taken over by his understudy Ben Janney.

Bell, once a topflight fighter, lost a 1946 decision to Sugar Ray Robinson in a welterweight title bout. He is originally from Youngstown, Ohio.

Court Judge Denies Bribe Allegation

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Criminal Court Judge Raulston Schofield denied last night that he had ever taken a bribe. He said that allegations that he had done so stemmed from what he called a contemptible plot and conspiracy.

In an hour-long television speech delivered first here and then in Nashville, Schofield answered charges made against him last week before the Senate Rackets Committee by saying:

1. That he emphatically denied any implications that he had taken a bribe to quash conspiracy charges against 13 Teamsters Union members.

2. That Asst. Dist. Atty. Gen. Harold Brown had testified correctly that he, Brown, gave the judge $1,000 for his 1954 gubernatorial campaign fund from a bondsmen named Sam Jorica, but indicated he had no knowledge that it may have been contributed by a defendant who was later arrested in his court.

3. That he acknowledged his failure to report expenditure in his segregationist campaign for governor.

4. That investigators for the committee which he called a "red-crawl engine of tyranny," had not at labor-management cases but only at him because of his stand against centralized government and for states rights.

For the Rackets Committee, Sen. Curtis (R-Neb.) said: "The judge is overrating himself. We have no interest in him personally nor jurisdiction over him. His characterization of the committee is entirely false. There is no plot to destroy him."

Schofield, in his speech, defended in detail the allegations that $20,000 was passed to the cases against the 13 Teamsters and another $1,000 to Sam Jorica, who had been convicted of receiving and concealing stolen property, and that he had not reported his campaign expenses.

His defense in the Teamsters case:

He still believes his legal decisions were correct in first quashing the indictment and then, after higher court reversal, directing an acquittal of the 12 defendants who showed up for trial.

The money allegedly withdrawn from Teamsters Union funds to fix the case had been withdrawn more than a year before the action heretofore referred to.

In the Galloway case he had no doubt of Galloway's guilt but had paroled him on a plea to a lesser offense after he had established that he had a good reputation, and after two trials.

He expressed confidence in the integrity of Brown, who had passed the controversial $1,000 to Schofield.

In conceding that he had tried to report his campaign expenditures as required by law, the judge said it was not customary for losing candidates to do so, that he had not exceeded the statutory limitation in the brief campaign, and that he had just not thought about it.

FCC Gets Pay as You Go TV Application

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission today received its first application for pay-as-you-see television.

It came from the Philadelphia Broadcasting Co., Inc.

The applicant, which has a construction permit for UHF ultra high frequency — TV station WSCS on Channel 29, asked permission to conduct tests with subscription TV. It said it plans to use the Skiatron system, one of several systems for making programs available only to those paying to view.

The commission has announced that it will consider applications for experimental subscription TV, but that no applications will be acted upon before March 1.

Fair today with highest temperatures in the 50s; fair and cool tonight.

Eager Hounds Just Got Lost

DERBY, England (AP)—The eager hounds of the Meynell hunt flushed a fox yesterday at dusk. The fox took off into the scrub country with the hounds in hot pursuit. The hunters rode after them into the night.

It took hunters and farmers nine hours to round up the hounds, hopelessly lost. No fox.

Lots of parents take their kids to the circus, but they don't take them to Sunday school.

Quality Up But Business in Movies Down

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Quality was up but business was down for the movie industry in 1957.

It was another rearguard year even though movie makers were working harder than ever to produce quality films. In many cases they succeeded.

But the results still were not shown at the box office. Many films that were hailed by the critics were poorly patronized by movie goers. Two notable examples: "Love in the Afternoon" and "12 Angry Men."

Now is the season to round up the best and worst of the year, whether they were successful with the public or not. So I'll take a deep breath and plunge ahead.

Best pictures: "Bridge on the River Kwai," "Sayonara," "A Farewell to Arms," "Raintree County," "A Hatful of Rain."

Best male star performances: Alec Guinness, "Kwai," Marlon Brando, "Sayonara," Rock Hudson, "Farewell," James Cagney, "Man of a Thousand Faces," Cary Grant, "An Affair to Remember."

Best female star performances: Elizabeth Taylor, "Raintree"; Jennifer Jones, "Farewell"; Deborah Kerr, "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison"; Anna Magnani, "Wild is the Wind"; Audrey Hepburn, "Love in the Afternoon."

Best comedy: "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

Best musicals: "Funny Face" and "Les Girls."

Best Western: "Gunfight at O.K. Corral."

Worst picture: "Jet Pilot."

Worst casting: Lynn Ladd opposite Sophia Loren in "Boy on a Dolphin."

Special acting award: The gun in "Fridge and the Passion."

Best offbeat picture: "The Strange One."

Least needed picture: "The James Dean Story."

Worst picture: "I was a Teenage Werewolf."

Runner-up: "Bop Girl Goes Calypso."

Most promising newcomers: Anthony Perkins, Diane Varsi, Joanne Woodward, Anthony Franciosa, Bo Gazzara.

Most progress as an actress: Marilyn Monroe in "The Prince and the Showgirl."

Most progress as an actor: Tony Curtis in "Sweet Smell of Success."

Back to the Farm for Ike and Family

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower will leave tomorrow to spend about a week at their Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

The White House said the President will work there on the State of the Union and other messages to be sent to Congress early in the session beginning Jan. 7.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said the President will be away over the New Year's holiday in keeping with his custom of getting away from official routine so that he can concentrate on his legislative program.

Hagerty added that Eisenhower expects to confer at Gettysburg with Budget Director Charles Brundage and probably with other members of his official family.

The Eisenhowers will leave by car about 2 p.m. EST tomorrow. The White House asked that reporters and photographers limit the number of their cars in the motorcade to four.

Hagerty said this request was made because of several near accidents and other traffic incidents in the past.

The President was in his office today working with staff members. He also conferred with Secretary of State Dulles.

Hagerty said Eisenhower is "feeling fine" and has got some rest after last week's NATO conference in Paris.

No date was set for the President's return from Gettysburg but he is expected to attend the organizational meeting of the new Civil Rights Commission here Jan. 3.

Eisenhower also plans to confer with congressional leaders before Congress reconvenes.

Granted Furloughs to All Prisoners

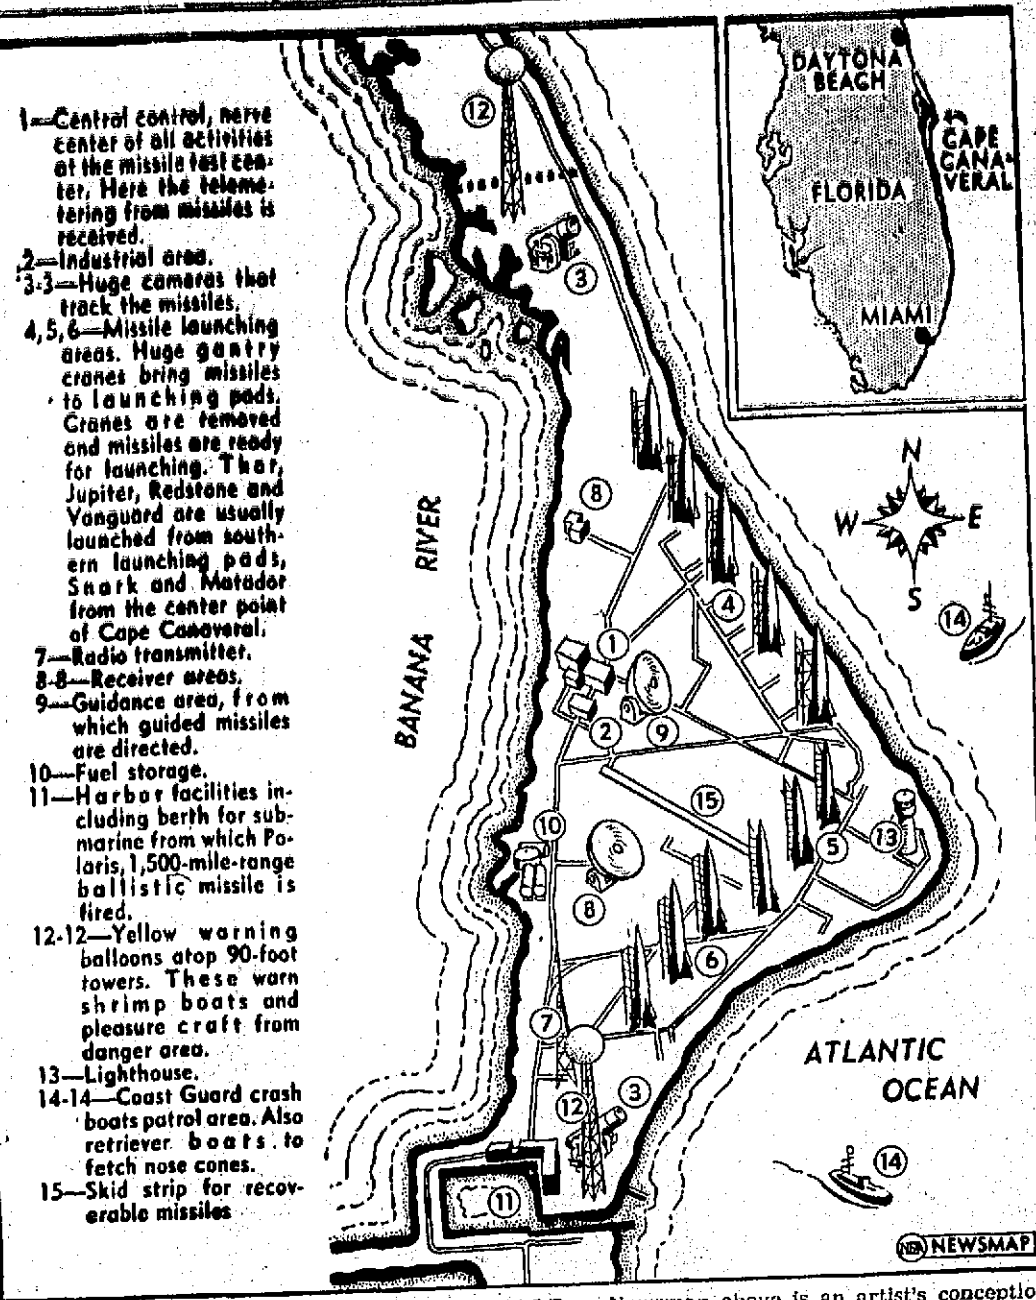

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark. (AP)—Woodrow Edwards, 40, took it upon himself to grant Christmas furloughs last night to all prisoners in the Dusha County Jail, sheriff Robert S. Moore reported today.

Now Edwards and the three prisoners he released are employees, the sheriff said.

Moore said Edwards broke into the jailer's room about 8 p.m., took the keys to the cells and released Wayne Calloway, 17, charged with burglary and grand larceny; Dwight Haynes, 17, charged with forgery; and Eddie Holmes, a Negro, charged with driving while intoxicated.

No officer was on duty at the jail.

The sheriff said Holmes was picked up by deputies here, while Edwards and the two other prisoners were captured in Edwards' truck by state police near the Greenville, Miss., bridge.

FROM WASTELAND INTO THE SPACE AGE — Newspaper above is an artist's conception of Cape Canaveral Auxiliary Air Force Base, from which guided missiles are launched. It is 18 miles north of Patrick Air Force Base. Its 12,150 acres, cut off from the Florida mainland by the Banana River, were a wasteland of sand dunes and swamps less than 10 years ago. Today it is one of the busiest defense establishments in the country, with activity increasing as Russia's Sputniks accelerate our missile program. First launching from a cape took place on July 24, 1950, when a V-2 rocket, carrying the American WAC Corporal missile, was launched vertically and then turned to horizontal flight. Since March 1, 1954, operation of the Cape Canaveral AAFB has been the responsibility of Pan-American World Airways.

Thailand to Pick a New Minister

BANGKOK (UP)—The newly elected National Assembly met today in preparation for electing Lt. Gen. Thanom Kittikachorn, the minister of defense, as Thailand's next prime minister.

The ruling National Socialist Party met Wednesday and selected Thanom to lead the new government. His name was put forward by Field Marshal Sarit Thanarat who led a recent coup d'etat that toppled Premier Pibul Songgram.

Congress Has Distasteful Tasks Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress, returning to work Jan. 7, faces some of the most politically distasteful tasks ever to confront an election-year session.

The prospect is for sharply increased defense spending in the light of Russia's military-scientific advances. This has virtually washed out any chance of general tax reductions.

Furthermore, increased defense demands probably will force Congress to boost the 276-billion dollar ceiling on the national debt.

Fred Astaire and Cyd Charisse Team in Cole Porter's New Musical Hit 'Silk Stockings'

Fred Astaire and Cyd Charisse dance to Cole Porter's hit song in M-G-M's "Silk Stockings," filmation of the smash Broadway musical.

"Silk Stockings," the Cole Porter musical hit, which ran on Broadway for two years, now comes to the screen in M-G-M's CinemaScope and color film version. In fact with its original score, plus two new Porter songs, and with eye-filling production numbers starring Fred Astaire, Cyd Charisse, Janis Paige and Peter Lorre, it opens Sunday at the Saenger theater.

An Arthur Freed production, budgeted as one of the studio's biggest musicals for 1957, the picture teams Astaire and Miss Charisse for the first time since their successful co-dancing appearance in "The Band Wagon." It brings Janis Paige to M-G-M from her hit on Broadway in "Pajama Game." Its lavish numbers called for not one but two choreographers, with Hermes Pan, the choreographer for all the dances in which Astaire appears, and with the remaining dances staged by Eugene Loring.

"Silk Stockings" unfolds a tongue-in-cheek satire of a forbidding Russian girl, Ninotchka (Miss Charisse), who arrives in Paris from Moscow to persuade Russia's most famous composer to return to the homeland from which he has strayed. It is an assignment on which three Commissars who have preceded her (and who have fallen in love with Paris) have failed, and Ninotchka, too, falls, thanks to the wooing of an irresistible young American film producer (Astaire), who convinces Ninotchka that they are "Fated To Be Mated."

This is one of the new songs which Cole Porter wrote for the film.

Another highlight scene is an ingenious strip-tease done by Miss Charisse to the title song, in which she emerges from the cocoon of her drab Russian uniform, then yields to the temptation of beribboned corsets, petticoats and — Silk Stockings. A third show-stopper is Astaire's "Ritz Roll'n' Rock," in which he dances in top hat, white tie and tails.

Janis Paige, in the part of Peggy, a movie swimming star who is determined to go dramatic, has three comedy songs in "Josephine," "Satin and Silk" and "Stereophonic Sound."

ADVERTISING IS NEWS, TOO!

People buy this newspaper for news of the world, the country and our community in particular. Our readers are also interested in news about food, clothes, entertainment, automobiles, furniture and all of the necessities and luxuries that have to do with daily living.

Through advertising in this paper you can give our readers the up-to-date news about your merchandise and services. Each one of your advertisements can be a newspaper within a newspaper.

Of course you should know all about the circulation of the newspaper that is carrying the news of your business. How many people buy the paper? Where are they located? How was the circulation obtained? To give you this information and many other facts that you need and have a right to know when you buy advertising space, this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Established in 1914, the Bureau is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,575 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Its purpose is to furnish advertisers with verified reports on the circulation of its publisher members.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced auditors makes a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records, just as the bank examiner makes a check of your bank's records. The information thus obtained is published in official A.B.C. reports. When you buy space in this newspaper our A.B.C. report tells you just what, in circulation values, you get for your advertising investment.

'Big Switch' in Politics in California

BY MORIE LANDSBERG
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The year of the Big Switch—that's 1957 in California politics. It's a tossup as to who coined the term, but the biggest switch in the state's political scene occurred when William P. Knowland, who decided he'd rather be governor than California's senior senator and Republican leader of the Senate, or Goodwin J. Knight, who announced and renounced his candidacy for gubernatorial election, and a chain reaction. Half a dozen or more candidates for various offices, but mostly the Senate, withdrew or scaled down their aspirations.

Knight, by stepping out of Knowland's way, avoided what many party leaders feared would lead to a disastrous battle in the Republican gubernatorial primary.

That wasn't the only surprise. Another came when Knight, who had been known as a conservative, announced he would support the removal of the state's anti-communist law.

Why did Knight capitulate? Why did he, the incumbent, quit the race for reelection?

Democrats and some Republicans immediately cried "deal." Knowland and Knight both denied it. Nobody yet has come forward with any evidence that Knowland is personally conspiring to remove Knight as his opponent.

It seems clear enough, however, that certain elements friendly to the outspoken California senator told Knight that they could no longer support him. Early polls, too, showed Knowland, the choice of Republican voters over Knight.

Deal or not, the governor certainly signed up major support for the Senate before retiring from his quest for a second term. Most of Knight's GOP opposition for the Senate evaporated with the exit.

Price Parity Guide Will Be Set Up

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower Administration will recommend use of a series of guidelines in determining future price support levels for corn, cotton, wheat, rice and peanuts.

They would replace the present formula for determining support rates under the 75 to 90 per cent of parity flexible support system. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices changed then.

The guidelines will be suggested in legislative proposals to be laid before the coming session of Congress. The proposals also will ask for 80 to 90 per cent support rates for those major crops.

The guidelines are:

1. The supply of the commodity in relation to the demand for it.
2. The price levels at which other commodities are being supported.
3. The availability of funds.
4. The importance of the commodity to agriculture the national economy.
5. The ability to dispose of stocks acquired by the government through a price support program.
6. The need for offsetting temporary losses of export markets.
7. The ability and willingness of producers to keep supplies in line with demand.

Under the flexible system, the department must raise support levels as supplies decline and can lower them as supplies increase. The guidelines are used now in setting supports for such crops as soybeans, flaxseed, cottonseed, dry beans, oats, barley, and grain sorghums.

Commies Going All Out in Middle East

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Middle East, relatively quiet now, seems destined for an all-out Communist drive in 1958.

A Kremlin intention to concentrate on the Middle East, almost to the exclusion of other areas, is indicated in the Soviet press. The Soviet news agency, Tass, has distributed directives telling the Communists where the point of greatest Moscow pressure will be in 1958 and what means will be used.

The basic outline of the Red program, says one of the directives, will be found in the declaration and peace manifesto adopted Nov. 22 in Moscow by representatives of 84 Communist parties.

"The Communist party of the Soviet Union considers the declaration and peace manifesto as the most important documents, which will serve as a guide to action for Soviet Communists," says the directive.

The manifesto appeals to all people to demand "an end to the machinations and war provocations of the imperialists in the Near and Middle East."

Outlining tasks for Communists, the declaration says the next one is the struggle for independence against colonial aggression and the feudal yoke. That fits the Communist conception of the Middle East.

A general peace offensive demanding prohibition of nuclear weapons provides an overall cloak behind which the Communists can work in the Middle East. Communist "unity" boss, Khrushchev is reviving and revitalizing the front groups to advance the drive. This information comes from a Central Committee directive to trade unions, which includes an international section intended for guidance of foreign Communists.

The World Federation of Trade Unions is told to step up its international activity, concentrating its efforts on infiltrating all other groups and extending its contacts and cooperation with trade unions of the dependent and colonial countries, irrespective of their belonging to one or another international center.

THE WEAF, long active in the Middle East, is largely Communist.

ception of Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco.

"I am in this race irrevocably," Christopher said.

Whatever 1958 brings at the polls, it will mark the end of Knight's often stormy career as a Republican power in the state. Yielding to Knowland for his own job, he lost a certain amount of respect within his party and yielded his shared control of the state GOP.

Knowland's election to the governorship would have him the inside track for California's vote for the presidential nomination at the 1960 Republican National Convention. Even Alan Cranston, No. 2 contender for Democratic nomination, would remain the titular head of the state GOP as his party's gubernatorial nominee.

CHAPTER XXXVI

Chief of Police Orville Campbell came in and stood by my bed, his hat in his hand. The coldness was gone from his eyes and his lean face was haggard. He gazed down at me soberly, his thin lips set in a tight line. "How're you feeling, Bennett?"

"Good, Chief — thanks to you. The nurse told me how you stopped the blood with your shirt."

"I was afraid I wouldn't get you here in time."

"Thanks again."

"Bennett, I should have noticed that Howell had changed his shirt. My eyes aren't so good any more, I guess."

He moved in hands helplessly. "I saw you leave Howell at the Harbor House. Howell entered the hotel, but almost immediately I saw him drive out from the parking area and follow you."

Howell told you about me? Howells car. He wasn't around. I sneaked into the woods and saw him. He was crouched down in the underbrush, watching you. And then suddenly I heard a shot. It surprised me, because I didn't expect Howell to have a gun. I stood up, but I could no longer see Howell or you. There were two more shots. Then I saw you lying beneath the evergreen, saw you move. I waited and watched. Then I saw you crawl out from under the tree. I was about to come forward when I saw Howell appear behind you."

"You waited too long."

"Listen, Bennett. For 30 years I've been an honest cop. What Howell told you about me was something only you and Howell would know. If I had let him know you no one would ever know that I had—had slipped. I need my job here and I need it. I can't get another, not at my age." He leaned forward, his eyes pleading. "Please, Bennett, try and understand."

"I'm trying, Chief."

"Howell told you the truth about me," he said. "I did weaken that first night—I saw no harm in it. And he came back, as he promised. Still, I knew that I'd been wrong. I returned his money, but the fact remained that I'd let myself be bought. I couldn't forget that. Last night it was different. He tricked me then, as he told you, and knocked me out. He touched the still swollen spot on my jaw. 'I want you to believe that.'"

"I thought a moment, trying to balance things in my mind. Then I said, 'Chief, it's odd but I don't seem to remember anything of what Howell told me except that he'd killed Ambrose Lott and Sandra, and that he tricked you last night and locked you in the cell. I'm afraid that's all I'll be able to tell the sheriff.'"

"I saw quick tears in his eyes. 'Bennett, I hadn't hoped.'"

"Shut up," I said. "No one knows that Howell was out of all two nights ago, except the motel owner, where he stayed, and he will have no reason to remember or care. No harm was done that night. Don't tell me that you've already confessed to the sheriff?"

He moved his head slowly. "No, Sam called off the meeting until you can be present."

"He gave me a thin bleak smile. 'How's Wayne taking it?'"

"I hit him pretty hard on top of the woman's head. But he'll be all right. He seems like a sensible, serious young fellow."

"All right," I said. "Let me know when the sheriff wants the meeting." "Well, tell Sam," he said gravely. "Good evening, Bennett." He inclined his head slightly, turned and went but quietly.

Army to Build Homes at Ft. Leonard Wood

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said today that release of 107 million dollars for government purchase of military housing mortgages would assure funds for construction of 1,329 military housing units at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

The Ft. Leonard Wood project was approved by congress last session. Aides of Sen. Symington (Mo.) said that funds for purchase of mortgages by the Federal National Mortgage Assn. were held up by the administration.

The White House announced Monday that 177 million dollars of the funds were being released for government purchase of housing mortgages, 107 million of it for military housing.

The Army told Symington's office today the Ft. Leonard Wood project is high enough on the priority list to be included in the Army's share of the funds.

The theater suffered only smoke and water damage, although two buildings and five stores were gutted in the fire.

tray without my ringing. I told her I had enjoyed dinner. She said she was glad and added gaily, "I have a surprise for you, Mr. Bennett."

I eyed her suspiciously. "What?"

"Chief Campbell's daughter and a young man. They're waiting down at the desk."

"Send them up."

In maybe three minutes I heard steps in the corridor and Honey Campbell entered, followed by Wayne Howell. Honey wore a dark blue sleeveless dress and her expression was grave and subdued. Wayne moved past her to my bed.

Wayne nodded, and I said to Wayne, "I'm sorry about your father."

"Thank you, sir. Do you mind if we don't talk about him?"

"I understand," I said.

He continued to gaze at me. "I was the one who hit you and shoved you off the pier the other night."

I was surprised, but pretended not to be. "So what? You pulled me out, didn't you?"

Wayne said, "I've told her about it. You're right, sir. I hated you. I wasn't thinking straight. You were another hired detective, like the others, and I was tired of fighting my father."

PAWS FOR PRAYER—Head reverently bowed, "Mike" the pooch receives a blessing from the Rev. E. Carl Lyon during a pet and hobby show in Washington, D. C., as his owner, Mary Beth Schulte, 13, looks on. Described as "just all-American" in breed by Mary Beth, "Mike" won the trick dog event at the show in the Blessed Sacrament School.

HE'S INSURED—Sputnik-conscious J. Richard Feeley peers skyward from a second-story window of his Amesbury, Mass., home to see if he can catch a glimpse of either of Russia's space travelers. Feeley, an insurance broker, is the first American to insure his property against damage by a falling Sputnik, and he hopes to be the first salesman in this country to sell such insurance. Lloyd's of London insured Feeley's home and two other dwellings on the single lot for $10.50 for a 12-month period. His property adjoins the homesite of Quaker poet John Greenleaf Whittier.

GREAT PROMISES from the BIBLE

Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and He shall lift you up. James 4:10

When confusion confronts those stricken by grief, we can depend on a powerful, unchanging, and eternal peace of mind.

Trusted products are sound investments

The brand names you have selected are sound investments because you know these products measure up to a specified standard of performance and are of known quality of construction and materials.

In advertising, the Audit Bureau of Circulations* provides a trusted standard of value for newspaper circulation. This newspaper holds membership in A.B.C. so you may have the FACTS about the circulation of your sales messages when you advertise with us.

With this assurance, you can be confident that placing your sales message in the advertising columns of our paper is a sound business investment. Ask us for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

*This newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a cooperative newspaper association of publishers, advertisers, and advertising agencies. Our circulation is verified by experienced A.B.C. circulation auditors. Our A.B.C. report shows how much circulation we have, where it goes, how obtained, and other facts that tell advertisers what they get for their money when they use this paper.

Homebrewer Was His Best Customer

CHICAGO, Ill. — A homebrewer was fined $250 in U.S. District Court today despite his protests that he was his best customer.

"I made about 35 gallons, your honor," Albert Way, 45, said, "and drank 18 gallons at home."

He sold the remainder to neighbors at 25 cents a quart, well below the going rate for commercially produced beer and way under the prohibition era prices.

Way's brewery was the first illegal home outfit uncovered in Chicago in 20 years. A 12-gallon vat and two 5-gallon pressure tanks were found in his apartment Nov. 23.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman assessed the fine on an indictment charging Way started a brewery without informing the Internal Revenue Service, a misdemeanor. The maximum penalty could have been a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

French Move to Curtail Cabinet Crisis

PARIS, France — Party leaders in the French Cabinet moved today to their National Assembly supporters to back a plan to curtail the nation's chronic Cabinet crisis.

Premier Felix Gaillard's Cabinet, which represents the major center parties, approved the three proposals in the plan yesterday.

Only the Catholic Popular Republican Movement has already given its support.

The proposals would prohibit deputies from introducing bills to cut taxes or boost expenditures; give functioning governments the right to dissolve the Assembly; and seek support for their policies in a nationwide election, and make it harder to turn cabinets out of office.

The key measure is the last one. Instead of voting on-confidence in the government, the Assembly would vote on whether to censure it.

If censure motions fail to win a majority of the total membership, the government would stay in office. If no motion is introduced, the bill under consideration would pass automatically.

This way an alternate majority to provide a new government would have to exist before a cabinet could be turned out. In the past a minority of deputies have usually brought down a government without offering any basis for a new one.

By giving the government the right to dissolve the Assembly, deputies who want to oust a cabinet would have to balance that against fighting an election to re-elect their seats.

The Assembly approved Gaillard's 1958 budget last night by a vote of 288-233. Under it France will spend 5,295 billion francs and take in 4,695 billion. This leaves a deficit of nearly 600 billion (1½ billion dollars).

The first organized meeting advocating woman's suffrage was held at Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848.

Elvis Is Granted 60-Day Draft Stay

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Elvis Presley today was granted a 60-day delay of his induction into the Army, enabling him to complete a moving picture for Paramount Studios.

The deferment was voted unanimously by his draft board. He had been scheduled for induction Jan. 20.

The board acted after receiving requests for the delay from both Paramount and the 22-year-old performer.

Commies in Shakeup to Gain Strength

BY ROY ESSOVAN

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R. — A recent series of reshuffles within the Communist party apparently is designed to strengthen the control and leadership of the central party organization in Moscow and throughout the provinces.

The main move was taken last week when three party Presidium members were appointed secretary of the central party organization directly under party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev.

They are N. A. Mukhlidnov, Alexei I. Kirilenko, and N. G. Ignatov, all of whom are regarded as long-time Khrushchev supporters.

Mukhlidnov also was promoted from candidate member to full member of the Presidium.

With membership of the Presidium expanded to 15, the secretariat now provides a more tightly knit body for direction and control of party affairs.

Other reshuffles were reported from Kazakhstan and the Ukraine last night, also fitting into the current pattern.

Writing Letter at Drive-in Mail Box

TOPEKA, Kan. — Topeka Police Chief S. R. Purdie found a line of cars with impatient drivers waiting and honking as they approached a drive-up mail box at the post office.

After about a five-minute wait in the line himself, Purdie investigated and found a woman in a car alongside the mail box penning the last lines of a letter.

"Obvious of no fun, folks drivers behind her," Purdie said, she finished the letter, addressed the envelope, stamped it, dropped it in the box and slowly pulled away.

Norwegian Envoy Bids Ike Goodbye

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The retiring dean of the Washington diplomatic corps, Norwegian Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstjerne, said goodbye to President Eisenhower today.

A long-time personal friend of the President, Morgenstjerne told newsmen he and the chief executive discussed many official business during the farewell call.

Morgenstjerne has been stationed in Washington longer than any other foreign diplomat—23 years.

He is retiring Dec. 31 but will stay on in the capital indefinitely since he has two married daughters living here.

The increased number of deer has, of course, had its effect on our supply of ruffed grouse. The trees in our forests are browsed until the "deer line" about six feet above ground, is quite plain. All edible underbrush as well as ground cover such as wild strawberry, teaberry and clover has been consumed by hungry deer, thus removing food and cover for the grouse.

The result is that there are not enough grouse in our woods to make hunting them worth while. Oh, of course, there are concealed grouse, but they are becoming vanishingly few.

The effects of fast run-off of rains and the increasing number of dry summers evidently has had its effect on our forest's food supply. These grand little game birds have changed their flight line. No longer do they strive for food in the baked-out covers of eastern Pennsylvania.

Instead, they now come down through the western part of the state and our covers, which used to furnish us excellent shooting, now are empty.

Conversely, the ringneck pheasant is more numerous through areas than ever in my memory. Probably an excellent nesting year during a warm winter. These pheasants seem to have a dubious gift of absolute genius when it comes to taking off on the wrong foot.

Always, it seems, they are off to the left. I wonder, didn't I think of something like an indoor duck when we were freezing fingers, toes and ears, tending tip-ups on a wind-swept lake? No doubt about it, the world moves on.

AN INVISIBLE WORLD—Not a Picasso painting, this is what a metallograph sees when focussed on a sample of alloy cast iron. It's a photograph, taken by a camera in combination with a powerful microscope by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada. Metallography provides important clues to metal weaknesses which, if undetected, could cause costly breakdowns.

OUTDOORS with John Alden Knight

It's a changing world and there can be no doubt about it. Our climate, for example, is changing and, not in my opinion, for the best. Now we in what are laughingly called "the temperate states," have temperatures which average about four degrees higher per day than those of ten or fifteen years ago.

Our national water tables are far lower than they used to be. Denuded hillsides, increasing amounts of cleared land, and far less static snow in the winter months than we used to have are telling their story. In addition, our use of fresh water has increased tremendously.

It is only natural to expect that these changed conditions would be reflected in wildlife, both in behavior patterns and in population numbers. Sure enough, that is exactly what is happening.

Having been born in a small town in central Pennsylvania, the outdoors was my habitat a great deal of the time. Most of the native wildlife was familiar to me by the time I was twelve years old. Yet, believe it or not, even though I roamed the woods of good County, right in the heart of good wild-turkey and deer country, I did not lay eyes on a deer, alive or dead, until I was sixteen years old and had moved to my present home, Williamsport, Penna.

Today, when driving through our hills, no matter what time of year, it is exceptional not to see several deer. Our deer herd has increased to such proportions that the animals now graze in the fields like cattle instead of remaining in the woods.

Without question, the changing climate has had its effect on this increase in the deer herd. The snow in our hills is not as heavy as it used to be with the result that the deer are yarded for a shorter time and there is a smaller winter die-off.

The increased number of deer has, of course, had its effect on our supply of ruffed grouse. The trees in our forests are browsed until the "deer line" about six feet above ground, is quite plain. All edible underbrush as well as ground cover such as wild strawberry, teaberry and clover has been consumed by hungry deer, thus removing food and cover for the grouse.

In three minutes—

we "open up" a brand New Year. At this moment, "three minutes 'til midnight," millions are assembled to usher in this New Lease on life. Men are thanking God for blessings of the past and resolving new things for the future. This neat box holds a beautiful New Year, if we make it so. This gift is God's gift to mankind... what will you do with it? The steeple clock warns time for the new birth is nigh. Whatever you write on this New Year will be written in indelible ink... no erasing! Think wisely, speak truthfully, write with eternity in mind. Happy New Year!
